Tyco Security Products, part of Johnson Controls, a global diversified technology and multi industrial leader, hosted the inaugural Asia Pacific Customer Conference on November 1-4, 2016, at the Westin Resort Nusa Dua Bali in Indonesia. With the theme of Experience Inspire Empower, the event brought together almost 100 distributors, system integrators, dealers and end users from over 10 countries across Asia Pacific to experience powerful unified security platforms, innovative edge devices and a glimpse of future security solutions.

The conference featured a key note speech from Ken May, Vice President, Asia Pacific Sales, Tyco Security Products on the success factors and future direction of security products and solutions from TSP, affirming the commitment to continuous innovation and customer service improvement. He also outlined the exciting potential opportunities with the recent merger with JCI that will extend the reach of the technology solutions to making customers' buildings safer, secure and more efficient.

Customers were inspired by roadmap presentations and insights into new products to be released in 2017 by TSP Global Engineering and Product Management leaders in particular new interactive solutions from DSC, cutting edge new readers from CEM and Software House, and a trove of new features across Victor Unified, VideoEdge and Exacq

VMS platforms. The evolution of the products in the SME segment of the business with Exacq-Neo-Kantech integration demonstrated why TSP is a leader in the area of unification.
